

Let's Help The Next 2025 GIVING IMPACT

"I believe that the impact of a college education on an individual is profound. Not only does it enrich and enlighten a person as they learn and use critical thinking skills, but the connections made with people and groups can be life-changing, with a lasting impact. I am forever grateful for the foundational skills that my education has had on my life, and I'm passionate about helping others also have an opportunity to have a college education."

Natalie Ward, Board Member

From January to December 2025, Let's Help The Next proudly donated $13,350.00 US to 12 students at BYU-Idaho, providing timely financial support at critical moments in their educational journeys.

Each semester, we support three to five applicants, awarding an average of $4,000 - 5,000 per semester.

For some recipients, this assistance covered the final portion of tuition to graduate. For others, it helped pay medical bills, cover a month of rent, or make it possible to begin graduate school while continuing to support family and refugees back home.

What unites every recipient is their commitment to pay it forward. Whether by referring another student in need or volunteering with Let's Help The Next, they actively contribute to lifting others. They embody resilience, creating payment plans, working multiple jobs, and applying for additional scholarships-all while caring for spouses, children, and extended family.

Their stories inspire us. Their determination remind us why this work matters.

Stories of Courage, Resilience, Grit, and Kindness

Behind every scholarship is a story of perseverance, faith, and hope. This year's recipient represent countries accross Africa, Asia, Europe, and Latin America, reflecting the global reach and impact of Let's Help The Next.

Each student's journey is different, but all share a common thread: the courage to keep moving forward despite obstacles-and the desire to help others do the same.
